Strangers on a train: Operation Lifesaver rides the rails

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

The discussions ranged from the price of real estate, home towns, and of course, first train rides. For many of the people on board the CSX Operation Lifesaver this was their first train ride.

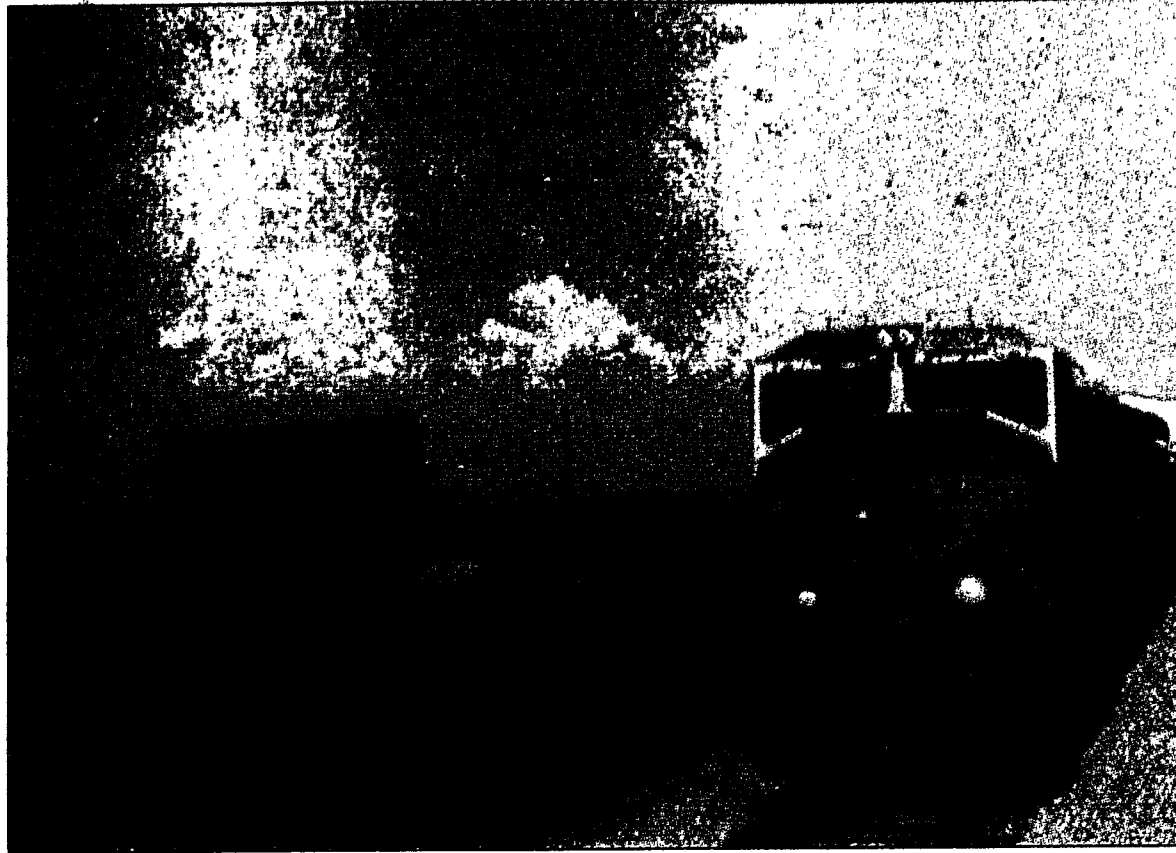

Many had ridden trains during their military service time in Europe. Many recalled stories of trains or train rides from childhood.

"When my grandfather worked for the railroad you could set your watch by the train," said one rider.

But trains no longer travel by strictly regulated schedules; even Amtrak passenger trains can run minutes or more likely, hours behind. That is one of the reasons why safety around rail crossings is more important than ever. A train can, literally, come by at any time of the day or night.

The purpose of Operation Lifesaver is to educate people about those safety measures. As law enforcement officers, firemen, officials and guests from along the coast moved through the cars, they were presented the opportunity to converse with CSX and Operation Lifesaver representatives, the Department of Transportation, the Federal Railroad Administration, and among themselves.

People gathered to talk in the observation car at the rear of the train, in various dining cars, built mainly in the 1930's and 40's, and at the front of the Franklin D. Roosevelt car which featured an outside observation deck especially built for FDR's wheelchair. This particular car also ran in John Kennedy's funeral procession.

As endless miles of swamp, mostly deserted fishing camps, and fishermen flew by, participants enjoyed the view while discussing the issues surrounding the railroad's desire to make crossings on the coast safer.

On the coast of Mississippi there are 144 rail crossings over 60 miles of track, more than any other system, said Steve Edwards of the Mississippi Department of Transportation. In the last five years, he said, the department has observed a drastic reduction in the number of accidents.

To further reduce the number of accidents several options have been considered, said Crossing/Trespasser Regional Manager at the Federal Railroad Administration Tom Drake. One of the ways mentioned to reduce crashes is to actually close some railroad crossings, which is being considered in many locations along the coast, said Drake. Another possibility is to make some of the streets that cross railroad tracks one way.

Both of these actions would also diminish the conductors' need to blow the train whistle so often as they travel through town.

As the train slowed down to let another train pass, water birds continued their daily activities, paying no mind to the intruder train. Barges passed, fish jumped and there was even an alligator sighting. Coming into New Orleans the cool swamp breezes turned sticky hot past what seemed like miles of graveyards for old cars, trucks, and containers.

Stories on the FDR deck turned to malfunctioning rail crossing warnings and gates.

At every rail crossing, listeners were told, there is an 800 number printed just under the crossing sign to call in case of emergency, or for needed repairs. Along with the number there are more numbers which tell rail officials which crossing and which track needs their attention. People are encouraged to call if there is a problem, we were told. Commercial truck drivers, school bus drivers and other professionals should receive training which alert them to this procedure, said John J. Albrycht of Mississippi Operation Lifesaver.

There are no car train accidents, said another Operation Lifesaver Representative, only crashes that could be prevented by observing safety measures: Never try to beat a train; if it's a tie, you lose; always expect a train; look for a second train; make sure all tracks are clear before you proceed; never stop on the tracks; if your vehicle stalls, get out and away immediately. Crashes occur about every 100 minutes in the U.S. Most collisions occur within 25 miles of home. Trains cannot stop quickly, but people can so be safe; stop, look and listen before you cross.

ATV theft investigation leads to three marijuana arrests

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
Publisher Emeritus

Hancock County deputies Push Phillips and Lamar Jones were assisting Harrison County deputies with an investigation concerning the theft of ATVs (four wheelers), on Sunday, which led to the arrest of three county residents on marijuana charges.

Sheriff Steve Garber said, "While conducting the investigation at 24184A, Road 347, Kiln, the residence of Homer R. Smith III, deputies observed a plastic bag containing marijuana on the kitchen counter.

"Narcotics Division Agent Clifton Malley was summoned, and approximately 1.8-ounces of marijuana and seven marijuana plants approximately four feet tall were seized during the investigation. The consent was received to conduct a search of 24184C, Road 347, Kiln, the residence of Gordon Downer, which resulted in the seizure of 13 ounces of marijuana."

Garber reports the following arrests:

-Kelly J. Clayton, 22, of Road 347, Kiln, charged with possession of a controlled substance; bond was set at $5,000.

-Gordon Downer, 42, was charged with possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver; bond was set at $35,000.

-A hold on Smith, 25, who is charged with cultivation of marijuana, who is presently in Harrison County Jail under other charges. Hancock County has a hold on Smith and his bond has been set at $25,000.

Clayton and Downer posted bonds.

Malley is in charge of the investigation.

Bay High students get on board Ocean's Alive

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER

Lacy Irias, Joseph Graves and Brandon Slade boarded the USNS Mary Sears Monday morning for a three-day adventure in learning. Biology teacher Christene Giattina accompanied the group.

The three Bay High School students participated in the fifth year of the Naval Oceanographic Office's Ocean's Alive (Oceanographic Career Enhancement and Naval Science: Adventurous Learning in Variable Environments) exhibitions this week.

Students from Wisconsin and Florida joined them for the first of four expeditions to be held this summer. High school students will go on three of the expeditions and for the first time, one of the trips will be made up of middle school students.

The morning began with a briefing from Senior NAVOCEANO Representative and coordinator of Oceans Alive Mark Jarrett.

"There are no guests aboard this ship so look around you," Jarrett said. The person next to you is a crew member and you are all responsible for one another's safety."

Jarrett told students that they would be given a safety briefing and a talk on the rules and regulations once the ship left port. After the briefing, students were released to get settled in their rooms and eat breakfast. Rooms varied in size with some students bunking on each of the three decks of the ship.

On Monday's exhibition students were scheduled to travel about 150 miles out

On the trip, students will participate in interactive lessons with the scientists on board and study biological oceanography, microorganisms in the Ocean's water column, physical oceanography, how sonar maps the ocean floor, what sediments are contained in the ocean's floor as well as bathymetry, acoustics and meteorology.

The students participate in round the clock learning which also includes dolphin and whale sightings, and nighttime programs which include astronomy and bioluminescence.

The importance of math and science skills and their importance in thinking creatively, making decisions, and problem solving will be stressed. Students were

Dance instructor celebrates 30 years

BY SHANNON JENKINS
Staff Writer

After 30 years of teaching dance, you would think Karen Compretta would grow tired of tapping her toes.

Not so says the dancing veteran who founded the Arabesque School of Dance in Bay St. Louis. On Sunday, June 16, a two-part dance review will be held at Bay High School's auditorium in celebration of Compretta's three-decade career.

Compretta began teaching her first dancing class in 1972 at Our Lady of the Gulf's Parish Hall. When her class outgrew the hall, she moved to K.C. Hall. In 1975, the Arabesque School of Dance was built on Old Spanish Road.

This Jonesboro, La., native began dancing at the age of 5 when she won a Shirley Temple look-alike contest.

"(That contest) opened the door for me," she said. Compretta danced her way right through college at Northeast University in Monroe, La., where she danced in musicals and variety shows.

Now, Compretta is anxiously awaiting the Sunday event when many of her former students will return for the celebration.

Although Compretta has accomplished a great deal in dance, she appears to be most proud of her students.

She proudly listed off the successes of her students who have become professional dancers, college dance team captains, college cheerleaders, dance instructors, theme park entertainers and cruise ship entertainers. Compretta said some have joined professional dance companies in Texas and Colorado and two have been chosen as Miss Mississippi dancers. Some of these former students will return Sunday to participate in the reviews.

The first review will feature "A Dream Come True," a fairy tale play written by Compretta. The show will begin at 2:30 p.m. At 5:15, a slide show will offer a visual recap on the school's former years. Then at 5:30, the curtain will rise for "A Celebration: 30 Years of Dance."

A $3 entry fee will be taken at the door and will be donated to the St. Jude Hospital.

Concerning the All Terrain Vehicle / Bike Motor Cross

First of all, the Deer Wood residents did not compromise with the developers of the race track. And the majority, and almost all of the Deer Wood residents, do not want the track. Over 266 signatures from the streets around the race track were submitted to the zoning office asking that the track be denied, and that it be moved to a more suitable area. I asked the Board of Supervisors to look at and please consider.

Yet, one local resident stating she could compromise, sent everyone running. I have not changed my opinion. What about the many other Deer Wood residents that are not in favor of the track because of the hardships it would cause us all? Our children's well being, the value of our homes and also the homes of the surrounding area would be diminished. Also we do not want an R.V. Park. And what good does it do to move the track back some? It will just be closer to the church, the community center and Harrison County residents on Vidalia road. It is still on the same land. And putting in another commercial business at the track site would only present more hardships to local residents.

We feel that we are being forced to accept something that is not right for us, our families or this area. Like any other community, we have elderly, terminally ill residents, and disabled terminally ill veterans. Some local residents would have no choice but to re-locate if the track was approved.

What about the cost to the local residents of Hancock County?

We are zoned agricultural, not commercial, or industrial. We do not need nor want the above level air and noise pollution. We have a dairy farm on Deerwood rd. Our children need their MILK. We also have a horse stable on the adjacent road that offers trail rides to handicapped children. These and many other agricultural facilities have been in operation for years. We also have a subdivision on Deer Wood Rd. We do not need the extreme and excessive traffic on these roads endangering the children in the area. Also the excessive traffic will cause a hardship to the dairy farm, etc. Our roads can hardly support local residents, much less the commercial activities of a business this size.

I was at the first meeting, with the zoning office. I know what the developers asked for. And I believe, the zoning office when they said that Hancock County would have little control on it, as they said, who would police it?

The developers didn't even have the audacity to obtain proper permits from Hancock County when they opened illegally.

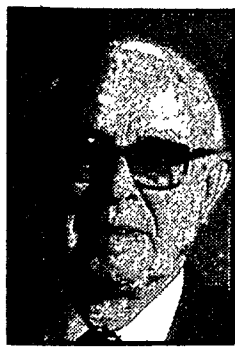

How can they expect us to trust them.

HOW CAN HANCOCK COUNTY OFFICIALS trust the developers to treat the residents fairly. Also how can we trust the county officials to protect the local residents? What will make the developers adhere to any restrictions placed upon them? Phone calls of complaints have not worked in the past! Also, what about the mixing of land uses? And other sections of the zoning ordinance that apply? If this isn't a mixing of land use, then what would you call it? If others do not have to observe zoning ordinances, then why do we? We live here, these are our homes! Hancock County may have been an easy target for the developers, but we won't give up easily!!!!

Signed,
Kathryn Heldt, Deer Wood resident.

P.S. Hi, J.C. saw you at the Dedeaux bazaar, thanks for letting us know where you stand!

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

There are times when many of us just wonder how fast time passes us by.

As for myself, tomorrow I will complete 45 years at The Sea Coast Echo, and it almost seems as if it were just a few years ago I began my newspaper career.

There is no question about the many changes I have witnessed in Hancock County and at The Echo.

The John C. Stennis Space Center, Interstate 10, Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission's Industrial Parks of Port Bienville and Stennis Airpark, Highway Shopping Center, and the Diamondhead Community were probably not even thought of.

On the other hand, the old ice house was still in operation, and the Depot area was the hub of activity as the shopping center for the county. Highway 90 did have the 20 or so praline and gift shops.

We had the A&G, Star, Highway 90 Drive-In and a movie theater on Coleman Avenue.

Yes, at that time, as we Waveland natives would say, "We can roll up Coleman Avenue after Labor Day, because all the summer visitors would return mostly to New Orleans."

All the young men would look forward to the "Easter Bunnies" arrival each Spring.

Brewster Mollere and later Mr. Charles Beam would run a bus service from Waveland to Bay St. Louis on a daily basis and certain nights for theater goers.

There was no sand beach from Bay St. Louis to Clermont Harbor, and fishing and shrimping was popular from the seawall.

Time brings changes, and I would have to say the changes by far offset the negatives, because today our youths have job opportunities we never had when my generation moved into the work force.

Lack of job opportunities caused so many of our young people to have to move to other areas of the country in order to find employment, and this really did not help our growth.

It was not until the space center and industry started to move in that the county's growth really began.

Our county has come a long way during my 45 years at The Echo, and the future looks very good for many years to come.

Have you noticed in recent weeks how beautiful the crepe myrtles are around the area?

I have several crepe myrtles in my yard, and they are just bursting with blooms. The only problem has been the recent heavy rains which have caused some of the limbs to sag because of the weight of the blooms.

I trim my shrubs each year, and that along with fertilizer seems to produce more and larger blooms.

A bit of water during the dry season helped, too.

The thing that amazes me, the extreme heat along the highway does not seem to disturb crepe myrtles.

There are some crepe myrtles around town, such as the one in front of the United Methodist Church that are probably over 50 years old. I know that particular one has been there for over 45 years.

After Hurricane Camille there was a big push on several occasions for residents to plant crepe myrtles because of their hardiness and blooming during June when most flowers cannot take the heat.

Crepe myrtles take little care and can really make a yard look good.

It was not business as usual in legislature

Mississippi last week desperately wants to protect its thin House majority, and every seat, even one in little old Mississippi, counts.

So far, it wouldn't take a rocket scientist to figure out that every card in the deck has been stacked against the Democrats picking up a seat in Mississippi's contested 3rd District.

It now looks unlikely the Democrats will under a remap plan designed by a three-judge federal panel of appointees of the Reagan-Bush I era which grabbed control of Mississippi's redistricting process from the state courts.

Meantime Atty. Gen. John Ashcroft helped tilt the Congressional playing field down here by letting Mississippi's request for pre-clearance of a state court-drawn plan favoring the Democrats sit on his desk without action for 50 days, enough time to let the federal court panel to swing into action.

It is bitterly ironic that Ashcroft's Justice Department is expediting pre-clearance of Florida's redistricting plan (adopted by a GOP-majority Legislature) which strengthens the Republican margin in the U.S. House.

Yet when Mississippi Atty. Gen. Mike Moore

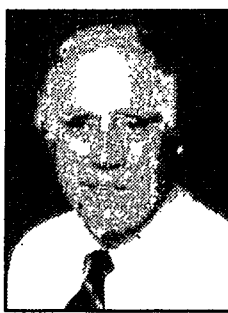

asked for similar expedited pre-clearance on a Democratically-favorable state court plan last Dec. 26, he didn't get it.

None of this would have happened, however, if in the first instance, the state's Democratic-controlled Legislature hadn't failed abysmally in its duty to redistrict U.S. House seats. That failure lies primarily at the doorstep of the state Senate leadership.

Remember, two-thirds of each branch of our Legislature is made up of lawmakers elected as Democrats. Plus, the state has both a Democratic governor and lieutenant governor.

In any other state in the

'Concurrent Receipt' the right thing to do

By Richard J. Santos, WASHINGTON — It is just not right. Military retirees with service-connected disabilities continue to have their Defense Department retired pay reduced by the amount of disability compensation that they receive from the Department of Veterans Affairs.

If these half-million veterans left the military after they incurred their service-connected disabilities, and retired from any other federal agency except a branch of the U. S. armed forces, they would receive both retired pay and disability compensation full.

Service-connected military retirees make a sacrifice that no other service-connected federal retiree makes. It is a circumstance brought about by a century-old law.

Congress came as close as ever to changing that law in the defense budget. A House-Senate conference committee, on December 11, voted in principle to end pay cuts for service-disabled military retirees.

But it failed to appropriate the funds to do so. In so doing, conferees passed the buck on this issue to the administration and undermined the will of the majority in Congress that co-sponsored "concurrent receipt" legislation. Legislation designed to correct, this injustice.

The conferees sent a message to our troops that they might as well leave the military, if they become injured, rather than be shortchanged in their retirement years.

The original "concurrent receipt" legislation, introduced by Senator Harry Reid of Nevada and Representative Mike Bilirakis of Florida, fit the practical definition of bipartisan — with 75 Senate co-sponsors and 378 House co-sponsors — and it should have breezed through Congress, not compromised by the conference committee.

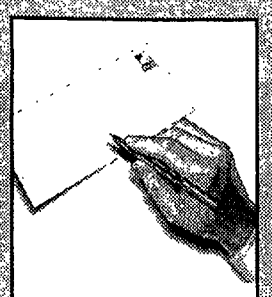

The case is not closed. The American Legion will continue to fight for service-disabled military retirees by encouraging Congress to fund "concurrent receipt" provisions in the 2003 fiscal year's budget.

On behalf of the 2.8 million member American Legion, I further invite con-and disability compensation to receive their full and just benefits.

Union-I keep up with such things whenever Congressional districts are redrawn, the party that controls the Legislature, especially both branches, uniformly enacts a plan more favorable to electing fellow party members to the U.S. House.

Consequently, you would think it was a given that the Mississippi Legislature would draw a map giving Democratic U.S. Rep. Ronnie Shows a better voter base than Republican Chip Pickering in a newly created 3rd District that pits the two against each other.

Amazingly, that didn't happen. In fact, last November's special session on redistricting came and went and produced no plan, ending with House-Senate conferees deadlocked.

The House adopted a plan that suited Shows even though it reduced his previous 42.9 per cent black pro-Democratic voter base by almost 5 points and it also contained a majority of counties George Bush had carried in 2000 and Mike Parker in 1999.

But the Senate rejected the plan and passed one that delighted Pickering, giving him his existing heavy-voting white GOP base in Rankin County and South Madison county. Shows was left without any solid Democratic base from his old district.

The rap against the House plan, Democratic Lt. Gov. Amy Tuck, and her puppeteer, Sen. Travis Little, of Corinth, (both from Northeast Mississippi) had contended was that it brought some 95,000 people from the Jackson metropolitan area into to the Northeast First District.

Later, however, in the joint House-Senate conference, House members offered a compromise which would reduce to 37,000 the number from the Jackson area put into the Northeast district.

But Senate leaders refused to accept it, sticking to their pro-Republican plan, ending the session in deadlock.

So, with the state's March 1 candidate qualifying deadline pressing down, Hinds County Chancery Judge Patricia Wise, backed by a 7-to-1 vote of the state Supreme Court, stepped in to do what lawmakers failed to do.

Within days, she came up with a well-balanced plan that gave Shows a reasonable shot at winning (37.5 black VAP), but displeased Pickering because it busted up his white Rankin-South Madison reservoir Republican-voting base.

From the get-go, the Mississippi Republican Party was determined to steer Congressional redistricting into the friendly confines of the federal judiciary (remember Bush v. Gore?) and all of the chips, with the help of Danforth and also Supreme Court Justice Annoni Scalia, a turkey-hunting buddy of U.S. District Judge Charles Pickering (Chip's Dad), fell into place.

The payoff came in February when the three GOP appointees on a federal court panel handed Chip Pickering the Rankin-S. Madison GOP voter base he wanted, and left Shows with only a 30.4 percent black voter base, 12.5 per cent below his former 4th District.

Questions about the Legislature's inaction persist. What was Tuck's game in playing footsie with the opposition party? And what about Little and several leading Democratic cohorts such as Sens. Jack Gordon of Okolona and Bill Minor of Holly Springs? Little, Tuck's chief bankroller in the 1999 election and now Senate president pro tem, has long been suspect as to which party he's in.

Tuck has displayed highly questionable leadership on several other major issues, among them the effort endorsed by all other state officials last year to remove the Confederate emblem from the state flag.

It's no wonder she has become a prime target of a great many Democrats who believe she should be put out to pasture in the 2003 elections.

David Garcia, who is in his second year as president of the Mississippi Firefighters Association, on Wednesday said, "I have been in very close contact with Jim Craig, the Mississippi Department of Health Emergency Medical Services director, since Bill 1089 came to light.

"The Bill was pushed through the Mississippi Legislature by an organization headquartered in Fairfax, Va., which has a membership of 25,000 women, who are going state to state, as they have lost a child who had an allergic reaction to eating peanuts, if I am not mistaken," Chief Garcia said.

The law places the Mississippi Department of Health in control of First Responders and the department still has to write and define the training necessary for a First Responder before they can apply to become nationally recognized, Garcia reports.

The Mississippi Firefighters Association president feels more time will be needed to write the manual of training, etc., a First Responder has to have before the bill can be implemented.

Garcia reported he had conversations with Craig Wednesday about the new law and he had said, "The Department of Health is going to try to give the training to volunteer firefighters free of charge."

Garcia said the state association will continue working with the Department of Health to implement the new law so that it does not have a very serious effect on First Responders.

The new regulations will give First Responders more capabilities at medical emergencies, Garcia allowed.

In Hancock County there are eight volunteer fire districts, in addition to Diamondhead, which is a paid department along with Bay St. Louis' and Waveland's paid departments.

Waveland Fire Chief elected president of Firefighters Assn.

David A. Garcia of Waveland was re-elected president of the Mississippi Firefighters Association at its 65th annual conference in Jackson June 5-9 hosted by the cities of Jackson and Ridgeland Fire Departments.

Garcia has been a member of the Mississippi Chiefs and Firefighters Association for the past 16 years and has served three years as president of the Mississippi Fire Chiefs Association.

Members of the group encouraged him to seek reelection for the office.

The members on Thursday honored Garcia with a plaque for his dedication and service.

In June 2001 the association voted unanimously to make him a lifetime member of The Chiefs Association. Garcia now joins the other 14 lifetime members of the group. Garcia said this was a surprise and a great honor.

"It is truly an honor to be elected president of the 5,000-member Firefighters Association, and I am very proud to represent the many fire chiefs, firefighters, fire investigators, fire marshals, fire coordinators, fire safety educators and training officers who are members of this association from throughout Mississippi, Garcia said.

However, Garcia said, he would continue to work to meet the challenges that face the fire services in this state and that he looks forward to working with the new executive board members.

The Firefighters Association has an 18-member board, much larger than the 13-member executive board of the Fire Chiefs Association.

Garcia said he would be calling a special meeting soon with the 18-member executive board to appoint committees and set the association order of business.

Garcia said that for the past year he has enjoyed working with state and federal legislators from throughout Mississippi.

Garcia said without the support of local and federal legislators we would not have seen the passage of improved legislation both state and federal.

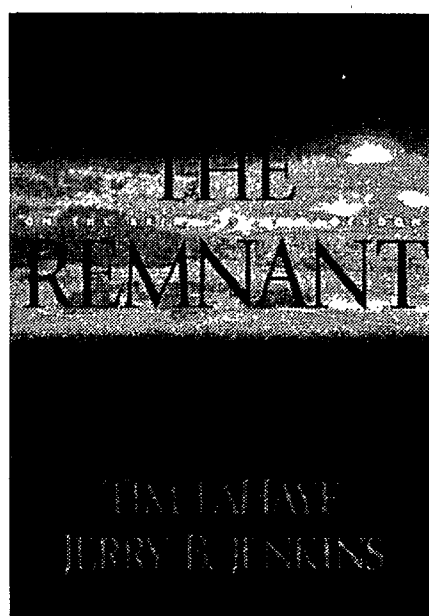

Garcia also said he appreciates the continued support of the mayor, board of aldermen, his department and his son, David Jr.

district has a dropout rate of about 21 percent, with most students being lost at the ninth grade level. She said the hope is that a new policy of allowing tenth graders to access the vocational program at the school will cut the number of dropouts. Hancock County Schools have a dropout rate of about 29 percent, Stasny said.

Classes in the district have a student teacher ratio of 24 to 25 students for most classes in kindergarten through third grade, Stasny said with about 27 students in classes grades 4 through 12. Some required classes at the high school level may have as many as 33 students per teacher, while elective classes may have as little as 15.

Increased costs in many areas are forcing the district to ask for more money this year, Stasny said, including a $35,000 increase for electric service. Another $16,500 raise in general insurance costs, a $100,000 raise in employee insurance, and a state required 6 percent raise in teacher salaries also have raised the budget costs.

The district spends approximately $6,690 for educating each student for a year, compared with a cost of $5,686 per student in the county.

The district has about 200 certified employees and 100 non-certified employees, said Stasny. The district has about 2,200 students at six schools.

The teachers in Hancock County are among the lowest paid in the nation, she said. To even be competitive for qualified teachers, Stasny said, the district must offer incentives above and beyond what is required by the state.

The board will hold a special meeting on June 24 at 5:30 p.m. to approve the 2002 budget and discuss administrative policies at its central office at 201 Carroll Ave.

In other business: Greg McMurray from Coastal Securities appeared before the board to discuss the refinancing of a 1992 bond issue. McMurray said that the new lower interest rates could afford the district a saving of $75,000 or more by refinancing the bond.

The board authorized McMurray to move forward in looking into the possibility of refinancing.

Southworth, Diamondhead's general manager. "Money is not spent without the board's authorization."

Those expenditures include maintaining the community's yacht club, marina, roads and other amenities.

Southworth said the present board has also made major improvements in the drainage system to help prevent flooding.

The board, which meets once per month - or more if needed - did not always govern Diamondhead.

When the community was established in 1970, the developer, Purcell Company Inc., was responsible for maintaining Diamondhead. Once the community had grown, the POA was empowered in 1985 and the developer turned over the reins.

Al Cronvich, a retired lawyer, took office in 1996 as president of the board. He served two consecutive terms and now serves as past-president on the board.

Cronvich said he enjoyed working on the board, but said it was very difficult at times.

During his term, he said a major difficulty was dealing with the construction of the new clubhouse.

With the difficulties aside, Cronvich said, serving on the board "had been interesting." He said he most enjoyed the USTA Senior Women's National Clay Court Championships, which Diamondhead has hosted for the past several years.

"I'm very proud of the clubhouse and the championship" he said.

Cronvich will no longer be on the board when the POA holds elections for new officers June 15; however, he plans to stay involved.

The Saturday election has a total of 20 candidates vying for office. This is one of Diamondhead's largest elections ever, and Southworth attributed this interest in holding office to the growing population of the community.

"The future of Diamondhead looks great," Cronvich said.

The candidates for the POA officers and directors include:

President — John J. Divers, Mario Feola, and Thurman Williams

Vice President — Charles E. "Chuck" Garrison, Benny F. Mistretta, and Donald E. Perkins

Secretary — Rebecca "Becky" Jordan and Pat Outlaw Robertson

Treasurer — Gena Cook and Lynn Roberts

Directors (only three will be elected) — Geoffrey T. Clemens, Glen A. Cofover, Joseph C. DiGerolamo, J. Robert Emry, John A. Hays, Morgan Ladner, Robert A. Legere Sr., William T. McCabe, Lloyd P. Ramirez, and Joel Salsbury.

Prominent attorney announces candidacy for Supreme Court

Dickinson says he 'will do what is right' and is 'seeking to restore confidence and respect in Mississippi's legal and judicial systems'

Jess Dickinson this week announced his candidacy for the Mississippi Supreme Court.

One of the Southeast's most prominent attorneys, Dickinson is running in response to citizens' concerns about Mississippi's troubled legal climate. He is seeking to restore confidence and respect in Mississippi's legal and judicial systems.

"We can only restore citizens' respect and confidence in our judicial system when citizens believe that judges are fair and are not willing to give special treatment to any person or group," Dickinson said.

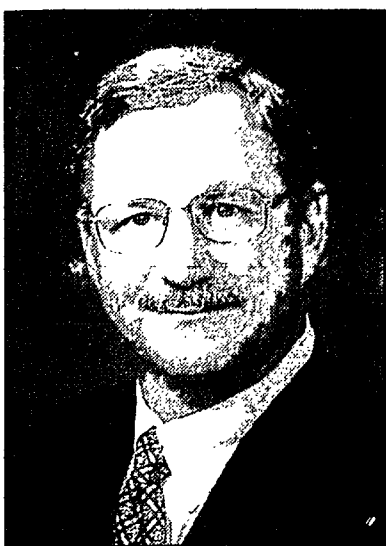

"The Supreme Court sits in final judgment over the property and lives of almost three million residents of our state. This is an awesome responsibility which must be exercised with total dedication to fairness and justice. We must provide a level playing field for everyone."

Dickinson announced his candidacy in several locations throughout south and central Mississippi and will be meeting with groups throughout southwest Mississippi.

"I am amazed and humbled by the level of support we are receiving from average Mississippians," Dickinson said. "I'm telling every one of them that if you will elect me to your Supreme Court, I promise you that, with God's help, according to the best of my ability and understanding, I will do what is right."

Dickinson earned his bachelor's degree from Mississippi State University in 1978. He received a law degree from the University of

Celebrate Dad with life-saving gift

It's not a tie or cologne, but it's the Father's Day gift that could save the life of men everywhere. Plus, it's free. What is it? The facts about prostate cancer.

The American Cancer Society reports that an estimated 189,000 American men will be diagnosed with prostate cancer this year.

As the second leading cause of cancer death among men, the disease will claim more than 30,200 lives in 2002. In Mississippi more than 2,500 men will be diagnosed with prostate cancer this year, and 400 will die from the disease.

"When prostate cancer strikes, it affects more than the patients - families and friends are also touched," said Felice Kelly, cancer control project manager of the American Cancer Society.

"Father's Day is a great opportunity to talk to the special men in your life about this disease and what they can do about it. By talking with their physicians, men can learn more about these screenings and then can actively participate in the decision to have the tests."

The American Cancer Society recommends that physicians offer all men over 50 a prostate specific antigen (PSA) test and digital rectal exam (DRE) annually.

African American men or men with a family history of the disease should be tested beginning at age 45. Early screenings have proven to save lives.

In fact, when this cancer is detected before it has spread beyond the prostate gland, the five-year survival rate is 100 percent.

The American Cancer Society also recommends that men learn as much as they can about prostate cancer and the pros and cons of testing so that they can make informed decisions about their health.

Facing these decisions can seem overwhelming, but the American Cancer Society has numerous resources and services to help men navigate through the information to make educated decisions.

By calling 1-800-ACS-2345 cancer patients and loved ones can ask questions, get disease-specific information, learn about treatment options or hear about a local prostate support group in their community.

This service is free of charge and is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Information is also available through www.cancer.org, and cancer information specialists will respond to questions and comments submitted through the Web site.

As the largest not-for-profit source of cancer research funds in the United States, the American Cancer Society is also uncovering answers to prostate cancer in research labs across the country.

Research and scientific efforts funded by the American Cancer Society provide significant contributions to the knowledge, treatment and testing of this disease.

For more information, call the American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345 or visit www.cancer.org.

The American Cancer Society is the nationwide, community-based, voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives and diminishing suffering from cancer, through research, education, advocacy and service.

Local high school sophomores to donate time to HOBY

More than 240 high school sophomores are expected to commit at least 25,000 hours of volunteer service to communities across Mississippi in the coming months.

The 245 students, all graduates of the just-completed annual Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership (HOBY) program in Jackson, now understand the importance of volunteer participation in community services that impact lives of the families and individuals in their local areas.

"This may be the greatest outpouring of volunteer service to our communities in the history of our state," said Mississippi HOBY chair Barbie Bassett of Jackson. "Can you imagine the impact these high school sophomores can have on their local communities and on our state?"

The HOBY program, conducted annually in Jackson, is a part of the nationwide leadership training program for high school students created by actor Hugh O'Brian.

Its mission is to encourage high school sophomores to become active in volunteer activities designed to improve communities and the country. At the same time, said Bassett, the seminar provides leadership development training for the students.

The program focuses on leadership, motivation, and volunteerism by exposing students to business and political leaders and by involving them, as part of their training, in service projects with such community organizations as the Leadership for Service Program, HOBY participants are challenged to commit at least 100 hours of volunteer service in their homes, communities," Bassett said.

"With more than 240 students participating in this year's seminar," she added, "we can expect these high school sophomores to contribute at least 24,000 hours of volunteer service to communities and community program.

Area students who took part in this year's program and who will be volunteering for community service include Bob Bass from St. Stanislaus, Teddi Calamusa from Our Lady Academy, Heather Ladner from Bay High School, and Chris White from Hancock High School.

In addition to the annual leadership seminars, HOBY graduates are eligible for over 85 college and university scholarships across the nation.

The Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership Foundation was founded by the actor following a visit to Africa where he was inspired by a meeting with Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

"One of the things Schweitzer said to me," explained O'Brian, "was that the most important thing in education is to teach young people to think for themselves. From that inspiration, and with the support of others who believe in youth and the American dream, we created HOBY to identify, recognize, and develop leadership among our nation's youth."

Francis wins scholarship

Amanda Francis was recently awarded the Rebekah Kennedy Memorial Scholarship in ceremonies at Hancock High School. The award was presented to Francis by Basil Kennedy, son of the award honoree.

The scholarship is awarded annually to a Hancock High School senior who exhibits excellence in academics and character as well as participation in activities in both school and community.

An Honor Roll student, Francis has won awards for art achievement, drafting, and Spanish. She has also been elected Most Talented in HHS Who's Who and served as 2001 Girls State representative.

She was a member of the varsity soccer team, National Art Society, Beta Club, National Honor Society, and Future Business Leaders of America.

Francis participates in her Latter-day Saints Youth Organization, was the 2001 Hancock County Chamber of Commerce student director, was a worker in the annual Coastal Cleanup, and is an active nursing home visitor.

The scholarship fund was founded to memorialize Rebekah Kennedy, who was the pioneer guidance counselor for Hancock County Schools.

A long-time active supporter of quality education for all children, Kennedy championed students to broaden their horizons and promote culture.

She was an inspiration to countless students to continue their education at all levels.

The scholarship is paid from a fund set up at a local bank and only the interest is used to pay the award. The fund is open for donations.

Donations can be made through the guidance department at Hancock High School, 7084 Stennis Airport Road, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520.

Anyone wanting further information may contact Mike Murphy at 467-2388.

Rose-form impatiens meet shade challenges

SOUTHERN GARDENING
BY NORMAN WINTER
MSU Horticulturist
Central Mississippi
Research & Extension Center

This time last year I accepted a new challenge, horticulturally speaking, when my family moved into another home with a sun-challenged yard. Shade inspired us to plant azaleas, hostas, ferns and cast-iron plants like crazy, but some of the most enjoyable flowers have been the impatiens, especially the Fiesta double or rose-form impatiens.

If you have shade and want some drop-dead gorgeous flowers, you must give impatiens a try. You might consider it a rose for the shade or a rose with no thorns, virtually no diseases and relatively few, if any, insect problems. Lastly, it is a rose that blooms the entire season and never needs deadheading. I know they are not really roses, but you cannot help but admire the similarity when you look at a bloom.

Rose-form impatiens have been out for a few years, but big improvements have been made recently. A decade ago, seed companies were producing them, but were having difficulty producing the seeds and keeping the rose-form stable. They would revert back to single or semi-double.

Producers propagate most of these impatiens vegetatively and put them through a rigorous screening program for any unseen diseases. The result has been phenomenal, with huge rose-form flowers produced in abundance for terrific landscape displays. They also are well suited to large containers where they form huge mounds of blooms and leaves. They really live up a porch, patio or deck and other areas receiving filtered light.

I still see some sold generically, but those known for superior performance are the Fiesta Series produced by Ball Flora Plant and the Tioga Series produced under The Flower Fields label, which is a division of Paul Ecke Ranch.

I am a little partial to the Fiesta Series that has more than a dozen colors, such as Salsa Red, Burgundy Rose and Coral Bells, including Purple Pinata and Stardust Lavender and Sparkler Cherry that will be introduced in 2003. The Tioga Series also boasts a dozen colors such as a gorgeous Rose on White, Purple Star and Neon Salmon.

Torey Pringle, the granddaughter of Fred and Beverly Rooks of Kiln, is a piano prodigy despite the fact that she was born blind.

Playing by Ear

BY BENNIE
SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

The strength of the human spirit is never more evident than in those who have to overcome great obstacles to achieve what they love. These stalwarts bring inspiration to all of us and serve to remind us of just how lucky we are. They put the petty, everyday problems into perspective.

Torey Pringle embodies that spirit as she brings her unique perspective with her wherever she goes. Torey was born blind and now, at the ripe old age of eight, she is driven to share her special gift with anyone who cares to listen. And a lot of people do want to listen.

About two years ago, Torey's parents, Tanisha and David, discovered quite by accident that their daughter had a special gift. While visiting a relative who owned a piano, Torey began to play. Not just a note or two, but songs she had heard in church or on the radio. She sat right down at the keys and began to play.

The Pringles were thrilled with their daughter's interest and enrolled Torey in piano lessons, but her teacher informed them that Torey had the unusual gift of being able to learn by ear. She could guide Torey, but her talent came from within.

Since that time, the little girl plays every moment she has the chance, her mother said. And in the past two years she has progressed at a fast clip. This week, the family, who lives in Missouri, were visiting Fred and Beverly Rooks, Torey's grandparents and Kiln residents. And of course, Torey played.

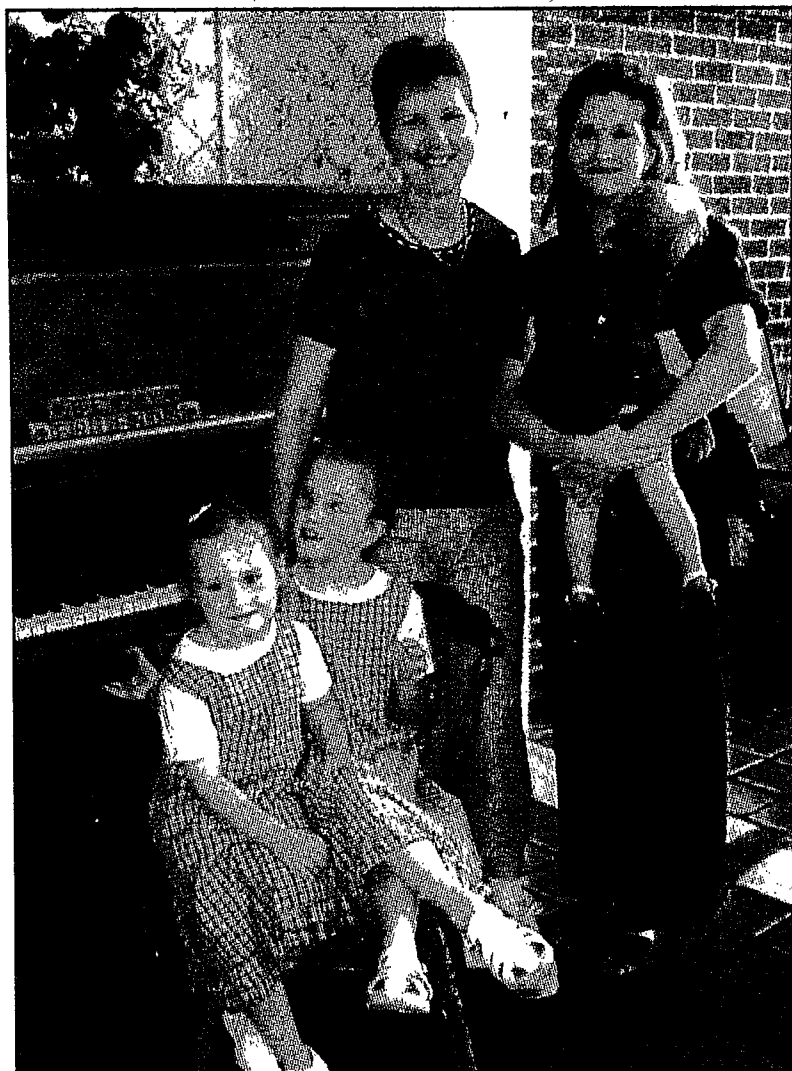

At the Hotel Reed nursing home, she visited with residents and after a conversation asked, "Are you old?" A simple question, but one that brought home the different world of Torey's spirit. A world of sounds unhampered by the physical prejudice that rules most of our lives.

Hotel Reed did pose a difficulty for Torey though; the pianos were out of tune. She was very upset by this because to Torey, whose ear is attuned to perfect pitch, the music she played sounded off key and not worthy for a concert. Finally, she was persuaded by her mother and grandmother to go ahead and play anyway.

Her mother explained, "Torey has a perfect ear. She even corrects her father when he practices guitar and coaches him as he plays. She knew the names of the keys on the guitar by ear, even though she had never played one. She also tunes the guitar for her father."

Torey has tried violin and was able Cheerleaders at Bay High School were told something to the effect of, "We'll clothe you, but we aren't claiming you," at Tuesday's Bay St. Louis-Waveland school board meeting.

Cheerleaders preparing to go to a one-week camp at Perkinson next week were concerned about something they heard: that they could not wear the high school squad uniforms and represent BHS at the camp, because no school employee will be attending the event.

Alison Smith, representing parents of the cheerleaders, presented the board with the parents' views. "We don't see why a teacher is needed, since the parents fund the whole camp," she said at one time during her speech.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

June 13, 1982 - Grass cutting along city streets in Bay St. Louis may soon be the responsibility of a private contractor. At a recess meeting Thursday, the Bay City Council accepted a low bid from Tommy Ladner to cut grass along city streets once every three weeks.

Ladner, a former city employee, noted he knew the streets and the bid of $1,785 for each cycle of grass cutting. City Clerk Eddie Favre estimated the grass would have to be cut every three weeks between March and November, approximately 12 times a year. Favre estimated the city would save more than $2,000 annually spent on grass cutting.

It's Time To Dine Out!

Spotlight on Dining

Favre's on the Bayou

I thought I had the extreme pleasure of dining at one of the Coast's best restaurants, Favre's on the Bayou located at 1048 Kiln-Delisle Road. As I entered the family friendly restaurant, I immediately noticed the flickering of mini lanterns that sat atop each table. They really created a romantic atmosphere in the spacious dining room.

I continued into the cozy lounge and chose to have my meal at a table in there. Photos and football memorabilia of Brett Favre decorate the walls and made for interesting viewing.

The restaurant owners Scott, Jeff & Bonita Favre and Mark Gambino pride themselves on offering "casual dining at its best!" and I can certainly confirm their motto.

I was met by a very attentive and informative server who suggested I start my dinner with a cup of gumbo. I have to be honest and say it was the best gumbo I ever tasted, brimming with shrimp and crabmeat - truly a meal in itself. Even the butter for the bread/crackers was extraordinary - laced with herbs and garlic, a perfect complement to the crisp garden salad with a house dressing of artichoke and garlic.

Restaurant manager, Bonita Favre, stopped by my table to check how everything was and suggested I have a taste of the crawfish bisque. The next time I'm at Favre's on the Bayou, I will have a hard time deciding between the gumbo and the bisque.

By this time my entree arrived, stuffed catfish, which are catfish filets stuffed with a delectable crabmeat dressing and topped with a lump crabmeat sauce. I chose the twice baked potato as my side dish - a perfect complement to the dish. This meal was perfection on a plate!

I had no room for dessert, as the portions are very generous. You will notice many smiling patrons leave with to go boxes to enjoy the next day (or later that night). However, the dessert was made fresh in the Favre's on the Bayou kitchen and include a cobbler du jour, bread pudding with whiskey sauce, cheesecake and more. (Save room!)

Sunday in the lounge, Favre's on the Bayou offers 25¢ chicken wings during the Nascar Races as well as giveaways of T-shirts, glasses & more. Happy hour is 4-6 during the week and also during the races on Sunday.

For a truly wonderful dining experience visit Favre's on the Bayou. They are open Monday thru Thursday 4-10 Friday and Saturday 4-11 and Sunday 11-9. You may call 255-6857 for more information.

Irvin & Bonita Favre welcome old friends as well as new friends to Favre's on the Bayou.

SPECIAL TO THE ECHO

Debbie Reynolds returns to the Casino Magic Bay St. Louis Entertainment Complex Friday, June 14 and 15 at 9 p.m. Tickets start at $14.95 and are available at the Casino Magic Box Office, by calling 1-800-5-MAGIC-5 or at any Ticketmaster location.

Reynolds, a star of more than thirty motion pictures, two Broadway shows, two television series, as well as dozens of television appearances, is once again making her way to the Mississippi Gulf Coast to share her renowned talent.

Reynolds is perhaps best known for her acting career, starring in "How the West Was Won," "The Tender Trap," "Tammy and the Bachelor," and "Good-bye Charlie," early in her career. She worked with the likes of Gene Kelly, Lana Turner and Donald O'Connor.

She was nominated for a best actress Academy Award in 1965 for the title role in "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" and recently received Golden Globe nominations for her roles in "Mother" and "In & Out" in 1997 and 1998. She also was nominated for a Golden Globe in 1970 for her television series "The Debbie Reynolds Show" and has had a recurring role on "Will & Grace" since 1999. She received a Lifetime Achievement Award at the American Comedy Awards and a Hollywood "Walk of Fame" star in 1997. Her recordings of "Abba Dabba Honeymoon" from "Two Weeks With Love" and "Tammy" both sold more than a million copies. In the mid-1960's, Reynolds put together her first nightclub act, which debuted at the Riviera Hotel in Las Vegas.

In the years since, she has been a headliner on the casino circuit from Reno and Tahoe and Las Vegas to Atlantic City to the famed London Palladium, as well as in concert in every major American city touring on the average of 42 weeks a year. Since the late 1960s, she has also been actively involved in a project close to her heart, the collection and preservation of memorabilia from Hollywood's first half-century of film making, gathering thousands of costumes, props and mementos of Hollywood's studios and their greatest stars.

Her collection was on display at her Debbie Reynolds Hollywood casino in Las Vegas until it went bankrupt in 1997 and will again be on display at Hollywood & Highland economic development near Grauman's Chinese Theatre.

Born Mary Frances Reynolds April 1, 1932, Debbie Reynolds was married to Eddie Fisher, Harry Karl and Richard Hamlett, and is the mother of Todd and Carrie Fisher.

Carey to present 'Sanders Family Christmas'

In 1941, America's most victorious boxer was Joe Louis, its most popular movie was "Citizen Kane" and its most devastating attack occurred at Pearl Harbor.

A fictional gospel singing family would visit a small church in North Carolina to encourage the congregation and find the strength to accept America's impending involvement in World War II. This is the backdrop for the musical comedy, "Sanders Family Christmas" which will begin Carey Dinner Theatre's 28th season. Co-sponsored by Bancorp South, the production runs June 13 through 29 on the Hattiesburg campus of William Carey College.

A sequel to the popular "Smoke On The Mountain," "Sanders Family Christmas" finds the hilarious family back home for the holidays.

Set in 1941, the gospel-singing family has returned to the Pleasant Bay Baptist Church at the request of Rev. Oglethorpe (Daniel Sansing of Mooreville).

Several members of the town, including one of the Sanders' own sons, are scheduled to leave for World War II, and people are in need of spiritual lifting.

Father Burl (Daniel Shirley of Madison), Mother Vera (Laura Hastings of Ridgeland), twins Dennis (Danny Tran of Alexandria, La.) and Denise (Audrea McMillen of Tupelo), Uncle Stanley (Kevin Jackson of Meridian), and Sister June (Sadie Magadan of Chicago City, Minn.) sing vintage hymns and old-time Christmas favorites and share hilarious yuletide stories.

Miss Maude (Kristina Lucka of Bratislava, Slovakia) and Mr. Myrtle (Jonathan Hill of Southaven) return to the Amen Corner to enjoy the traditional music. Uncle Kus (Chris Lovely of Moss Point) is pianist.

Songs consist of classic hymns, original music and Christmas standards including "I Wonder as I Wonder," "Onward Christian Soldiers," "Away in a Manger," "Go Tell It On The Mountain," and "Merry Christmas Down Home." The show is written by Connie Ray and conceived by Alan Bailey.

Tim Matheny of the theatre faculty serves the show as director. Shannon Robert, professor and technical director is set designer for the season.

O. L. Quave, director of the theatre department, is managing director. Connie Roberts of the music faculty is musical director. Zack Brown of Tupelo serves as lighting designer and Kristina Lucka serves as costume designer.

Technicians are Josh Penot, of Berkeinston; Nathan Pardin of Saltillo; Justin Lawler of Purvis; James Stewart of Hattiesburg; Sam Sparks of Tupelo and Lauren Rasmussen of West Palm Beach, Fla.

Office staff are Jonathan Hill and Barbara Reynolds of Lumberton. Leslie Barker of Clinton and Kathy Herrington of Purvis serve as house managers.

"Sanders Family Christmas" will be presented nightly except Sundays and Mondays. Dinner is served at 7 p.m. in the O. L. Quave Theatre, with the performance following.

The box office is open from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. day except Sunday, and seats may be reserved by calling 601-318-6221. The admission price of $20 includes dinner, show and souvenir program book.

SIXTY YEARS AGO

June 12, 1942 - Miss Mildred Otis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Otis of Logtown, was recently elected president of the Alpha Kappa Chapter of the Delta Sigma Epsilon Sorority of Mississippi Southern College, Hattiesburg, for the 1942-43 session.

ONE HUNDRED-TEN YEARS AGO

June 4, 1892 - Electricity will soon be utilized to ring church bells. It might be a pious idea to put a battery to go off every few minutes under the seats of some of the men members who insist that in a church is an awfully good place to sleep.

There are 222 high schools and colleges in Mississippi, yet there are lots of people who don't know as much about education as a hog about Sunday.

These plants have the capability of showing off in your landscape from today until the first frost, so give them a proper home. Choose a site with morning sun and afternoon shade or high-filtered shade. Prepare your bed by incorporating 3 to 4 inches of organic matter to raise the beds and give good drainage.

As you till, work in 2 pounds of a slow-release, balanced fertilizer per 100 square feet of bed space. These impatiens get large, reaching 24 inches in height and as wide. Set out at the proper spacing and plant at the same depth they were growing in the container.

Impatiens combine wonderfully with caladiums that have the same water and light requirement. Try white caladiums with red veins with red impatiens. Bold drifts of impatiens planted with impatiens of complementary colors or colors of the same family will create a show. They also look very showy planted in front of evergreen shrubs, such as hollies, viburnums or ligustrums.

Keep them mulched, watered and fed every six to eight weeks with light applications of a slow-release, balanced fertilizer containing minor nutrients. In late summer, should they look leggy, trim back about one-third to induce branching and new growth. Taking care of them during late summer pays huge dividends with color all fall.

to play acceptably immediately, her mother said.

"We don't know, but we feel she could probably play many other instruments if we had the money to buy them for her," she said.

Torey also played at the First Assembly of God in Waveland where she had the privilege of playing on a baby grand piano, which she loved.

"The preacher wanted to test her," said Pringle. "So he played a hymn Torey had never heard, then asked her to repeat it. She played perfectly and also sang along. He was amazed. The Pringles have taken Torey to a few piano recitals and when she gets home, she plays the songs she has heard. Recently she began to compose her own melodies.

"Everywhere she goes she wants to play," said Pringle. "And we get a lot of offers. But we don't want to turn her into a show or put her on a pedestal and so we are careful about where we allow her to play."

The Pringles try to round out Torey's life. She is fluent in Braille and recently won first prize at her school for a book she wrote. She also won second prize for a poem about the color yellow. And no doubt she wins the hearts of her listeners wherever she plays her magic.

State Games' opening ceremonies are June 14

More than 10,000 spectators and athletes are expected to fill Meridian High's Ray Stadium Friday, June 14 for the opening ceremonies of the 2002 State Games of Mississippi.

Entering its 11th year, the State Games of Mississippi is a statewide amateur sportsfest patterned after the Olympics for athletes of all ages and abilities.

"This year's show is extra special, because it is a tribute to the September 11 tragedy and will have an overall patriotic theme," says April Luke, the executive director of State Games.

"We will honor the service men and women from Mississippi for their courage and hard work."

The opening ceremonies begin as athletes - representing their communities - take the field in a Parade of Athletes and a skydiving spectacle featuring parachutists that float safely to the field carrying the American flag followed by the lighting of the torch.

This year's torch bearers will be the 2002 State Games' Male BellSouth/Cingular Wireless Sportsman of the Year Anthony Thomas of Meridian, and female, BellSouth/Cingular Wireless Sportsman of the Year Wanda McAlister of Collinsville.

Participating in the State Games for the eighth year, 14-year-old Anthony Thomas has been involved in soccer since the age of four.

Since his involvement with the State Games of Mississippi, he has won three gold medals and one silver. Anthony's soccer team won the gold medal in the first annual Clash of Champions. This tournament included the top three teams from Mississippi and Alabama.

Wanda McAlister was a key member of the first unofficial committee that organized the State Games of Mississippi 2000 Dressage competition, the first equestrian event for the State Games of Mississippi.

She competed in that competition in two test at the Training Level and attained a silver medal for 2000. She again helped to organize the Dressage competition for the 2001 State Games of Mississippi.

She participated in two test in 2001 and won a gold medal in the Training level of the 2001 State Games of Mississippi of Mississippi Dressage competition.

The torchbearers will be raised to light a rocket that will soar across Ray Stadium sparking the torch of the 2002 State Games of Mississippi.

The event is capped off by a giant firework display engineered and supervised by a professional pyrotechnics crew, and Attorney General Mike Moore, representing the game's first-ever Presenting Sponsor, The Partnership For a Healthy Mississippi, will be kicking off the 2002 Games.

The opening ceremonies will officially start the 11th annual State Games of Mississippi held on two separate weekends - June 14-16 and June 20-23.

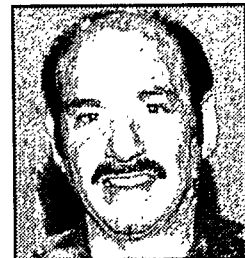

Athletes will compete in 28 events at over 20 locations throughout Meridian. Games open at 6 p.m. on Friday, June 14, and the ceremonies will begin at 7:30 p.m.

For more information on the games, call 1-800-482-0205 or visit the State Games of Mississippi website at www.stategames-sofms.org. E-mail requests may be sent to stgamiss@aol.com.

Pass Isles Golf Club celebrates 50 years

BY SHANNON JENKINS
Staff Writer

Poodle skirts and white Bucks are a thing of the past for some folks.

For the members of the Pass Christian Isle Golf Club, however, these items are necessary attire for an evening of celebration.

The golf club will mark its 50th anniversary with a "Back to the 50s" party for its members complete with golden oldies and a cook-out. Naturally, there will golf.

Jennifer Burke, the club's bookkeeper, said more than 200 members are expected to participate in the morning and afternoon rounds of the golf tournament.

About 350 people, she said, are expected to turn out for the outdoor celebration that night. A large committee has been working on the anniversary bash for the past year and has planned a night members shouldn't forget for the next 50 years."
